Team Leader Clinical Services Health & Counselling Centre - Student Affairs

Manukau Institute of Technology (MIT) is one of New Zealand's leading tertiary institutions delivering vocationally focussed tertiary education. MIT's Health & Counselling Centre is part of a PHO and provides primary health care, medical and counselling services to a diverse population.

This is an exciting opportunity where you will be a strong advocate for the provision of confidential, comprehensive, efficient and professional primary nursing care to students and staff. An essential part of the role is to provide professional leadership and supervision to the nursing team and support the centre manager and doctors with clinical co-ordination and service delivery.

The ideal candidate must be a NZ registered general or comprehensive nurse with recent clinical experience, and hold current practice certification. Because of the general nature of the services provided it is essential that you have experience in a general medical practice and competencies and qualifications/certification in a number of areas, especially Medtech 32, smoking cessation, sexual health and vaccinations.

Are you passionate about what you do and how you achieve results? Are you looking for that next step into a leadership or supervisory position? If you want to work for a progressive organisation that is focussed on the future, then maybe this is the role for you!
